PUBLIC HEALTH DAY IS NAMED

By State Health Commissioner in Letters to Various Mayors in West Virginia.

S. L. Jepson, of Charleston, state health commissioner, has sent the following to various mayors in the state:

Dear Sir: The department of health last year instituted a clean-up week and the governor by proclamation appointed a public health day. We have a reason to believe that much good was done by having the people of the state unite in an effort to improve sanitary conditions. This year the effort is to be repeated and Monday, April 17, has been fixed as public health day, the commencement of clean-up week. Experience in other states has shown the value of establishing the habit of thoroughly cleaning up premises, and of co-operation at a fixed time of the year. The following statement of actual results illustrates the value of such a crusade against filth, especially such as results in the reduction of the number of house flies:

Table with 2 columns: Diseases, Cleaned area. Rows include Total sickness, Noncommunicable, Communicable, Possibly fly-borne.

Here all diseases show reduction; in the case of communicable diseases the number of cases are reduced by almost one-half and those diseases that are possibly fly-borne are reduced practically two-thirds.

In another case a certain area was rendered free from flies, the total number of days of sickness from diarrheal diseases of children under five years of age was reduced from 984 days in the filthy area to 273 days in the region free from flies.

In view of the above beneficial and life saving results, we urge you to call upon your people to wage a campaign against all manner of filth and uncleanness in your community, assured that the best results will follow in the reduction of sickness, suffering and death; which means the saving of much money in every community.

FORTIFICATION

against the fortifications by a fleet of modern warships; and in a few instances to cover water areas not covered effectively by existing armament; and to deny to an enemy the use of certain harbors not now protected.

The total additional armament for continental United States included in the above projects comprises twenty-two sixteen-inch guns, twenty-four twelve-inch guns mounted for long range fire, twenty-three six-inch and four three-inch guns, and forty-eight sixteen-inch mortars; for the insular possessions eight twelve-inch guns mounted for long-range fire; and for the Panama canal four sixteen-inch guns, four twelve-inch guns mounted for long-range fire, and twelve sixteen-inch mortars.

Anti-Aircraft Guns.

"In addition to the above, the projects of the board include one hundred and thirty-four three-inch sixteen-inch mortars. Tenses of continental United States, three-inch aircraft guns, seacoast eight three-inch anti-aircraft guns for the Panama canal.

The board also recommends the construction of six sixteen-inch movable howitzers and an experimental fourteen-inch gun on railroad car mount for defense against hostile landings in unfortified harbors.

The present armament to which the above batteries will be added is described as follows: "Guns now mounted or being mounted (after eliminating batteries declared obsolete by the war department board of review): 16-inch, 1; 14-inch, 24; 12-inch, 111; 10-inch, 131; 8-inch, 49; 6-inch, 206; 5-inch, 52; 4.7 inch, 31; 4-inch, 4; 3-inch, 276; mortars, 408. Total, 1,293.

"The mine defenses are elaborate and practically completed for all existing fortifications and provision will be made for mine defenses in connection with new fortifications as soon as the emplacement of guns make such action desirable."

Reserve Ammunition. As to reserve ammunition the report says:

"A review of the subject in the light of the European war caused the board to very greatly increase the amount of such reserve ammunition to be requisite, and it has submitted this year an estimate of three millions of dollars, with a contract authorization of three and one-half millions to be expended toward securing a new reserve. The committee has allowed in its entirety the estimate submitted, making an appropriation in effect of six and one-half millions for this purpose, as against previous annual appropriations of $2,000,000.

In addition to the new guns, the bill provides for the expenditure of $750,000 to purchase the rights of the radio-dynamic torpedo control devised by John Hays Hammond, Jr. Acceptance is conditioned, however, on the report of a joint board of army and navy officers after a test for which the bill provides.

Gun Emplacement. The report shows that four of the new sixteen-inch guns will be emplaced at Cape Henry, Va., two at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., others at San Francisco and San Pedro, Calif.

Long range twelve-inch guns will go to New York, Boston and either Portland, Ore., or San Francisco. The full estimate for the insular possessions were allowed by the committee as were the war department figures for additional mobile anti-aircraft guns. In addition the committee asserted an appropriation for $1,000,000 to provide tools and fixtures for commercial plants to equip them for the manufacture of government ammunition. It is provided, however, that the prices paid for ammunition or other material purchased shall not be more than twenty-five per cent in excess of the government's actual estimate cost of manufacture.

Explanation Made. Chairman Sherry presented the following explanation of the purposes of seacoast defenses in his report:

"It is the popular belief that our fortifications are designed to protect all the shores of continental United States and the insular possessions from invasion by a hostile force and that they are adequate only to the extent that they would prevent such invasion. No greater misconception of their function could be had. The author of this report is unaware of any responsible military authority ever suggesting such a purpose. Certainly the cost of such numerous fortifications to accomplish such a purpose would be beyond the purse of even this the richest of all nations. "But though this is known by all students of the subject, criticism is continuously aimed at our system of fortifications because of the absurd assumption that they should accomplish the impossible; while many, properly believing that our fortifications are excellent but with the same mistaken view as to their purpose, fail to appreciate the need for other means of defense.

Chief Purposes.

"The chief and real purposes to be served by our fortifications are to protect from bombardment large centers of population where the damage that might otherwise be inflicted could not be thought from a military point of view admissible; to protect from destruction establishments of military value, such as navy yards, coal stations, arsenals, etc.; to deny to an enemy the use of important harbors as a base for offensive operations against either our fleet or land forces; to preserve such harbors as a base of refuge for our own fleet and permit it to be used in its most efficient way by seeking out and engaging the enemy; to afford refuge and protection to our shipping; and to compel the enemy in order to achieve results of importance to resort to an expedition involving the transportation of troops across the seas and effect their landing at some place not possessing the strategic value had by the places fortified.

"Of necessity many coast towns would have to be left without such defense, where the damage that might be done in the event of control of the sea being lost by our fleet, would be deplorable but would not be of such character as would really impair the nation's well-being or weaken its power.

"Fortifications are deemed sufficient when they serve these purposes and the prevention of invasion then becomes the duty of the mobile army. They are deemed sufficiently strong if they compel the enemy to land in order to effect their capture."

Safe Medicine for Children. "Is it safe?" is the first question to be considered when buying cough medicine for children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has long been a favorite with mothers of young children as it contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. It is pleasant to take, too, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. This remedy is most effectual in relieving coughs, colds and croup. Obtainable everywhere. — Advertisement.
